A DIRECT HIT FOR THE CAMP GROUND.

Wednesday an auto tourist rolled into Ashland's free auto camp ground for the night. The accommodations were so perfect and the environment so charming that he concluded to stay a few days and look over the city. He was traveling with the view of finding a new location. Thursday he purchased a home at a cost of around four thousand dollars, all a cash deal, and is now one of Ashland's citizens. His name is W. A. Black, of Spokane, Wash., and he purchased the Martin brothers brick home on the Boulevard. "Ashland's investment in the free auto camp ground will prove of more value than the cost of the entire springs enterprise. It has already brought more money to Ashland than the whole project cost. In five years the net profit will be as much.

The Social Realm

Heath-Sullivan

The marriage of Pearl Birch Sullivan, formerly of Ashland, and Thomas Jefferson Heath of Portland was solemnized in the presence of a large assembly of friends at 510 East Sumner street, Portland, Ore., on Tuesday evening. The impressive ring service was read at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Franklin W. Keagy, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. Grace Nelson played the wedding march while the bridal party took their places in a bower of flowers on the lawn. The bride was gowned in embroidered silk net and satin. Her veil of tulle was caught back from the face with a wreath of orange blossoms and buds. She carried a bouquet of white roses and sprays of green with satin streamers. The Misses Audrey and Pearl Lewis of Marcola, Ore., were maids of honor. Their gowns were of georgette crepe and satin and they carried bouquets of pink roses. Guy L. Bariteau, stepbrother of the groom, was his only attendant. The young couple left Thursday for Summerville, Ore., where they will reside.

The secretary will try to get invitations out to all former residents of Illinois that all married by Judge Gardner. For the present they will make their home with the bride's mother on the Boulevard, after which Mr. Hastings expects to locate in Portland. Both young people are popular in the younger set in Ashland and have many friends here who extend best wishes.

Hastings-Trask Wedding
